Dear Mr. Walter,

I have an important concern with which I would like to share with you at this time. I, being a philanthropist and lover of animals (purely Platonic, mind you -- not erotic, LOL), am the proud owner of Tuggles, a 12-year-old Norwegian Miniature Spotted Pony, who I rescued from the Barnum & Bailey Circus when he was but 4 months old. He is a VERY small horse, weighing only 75 pounds -- less than some dogs. I have taught him to stay, and to use the litter box, and he sleeps standing next to my bed every night, watching over me as only a spotted pony can. I see that your policy is to allow pets, and I wanted to make sure that my tiny pony will be allowed to stay in my room with me. I will put his hay in a bowl, and I will put a carpet under him so that he will not wake up the tenant below. Is this agreeable to you and to the owner? If so, I will make deposit in you immediately. Please send over forms soon, as I am eager to secure this lovely home in San Francisco.

Innumerable thanks, and blessings to you.

Mr. Walter Harry,

Thank you kindly for sending the agreement and the bank deposit information. I will have my secretary look at it and make the deposit. But before I can fully agree, I must have your assurance that sweet Tuggles is welcome in this beautiful residence. Also, will there be room for the pony trailer in the garage? If so, I will instruct my assistant to deposit in you today and sign all necessary documents.

A thousand thank-you's for your promptness,
RG

Mr. Harry,

I've rudely awoken my secretary from her nightly slumber, and she has sent as a deposit a nocturnal emission of $1550 into your associate, Mr. Caltabiano, per your instructions. Please send receipt of payment and any additional instruction for further emissions in your associate.

Tuggles says hello!

Please Ms. Zagat,

I would appreciate if you could give Mr. Harry the deposit transaction information that he has so patiently been waiting for. When do you plan to be in the office this afternoon?

(And please let me know when you plan to hose down Mr. Tuggles, he is starting to stink!)

-R

Mr Harry Walter:

Let me introduce myself, I am one of Mr Goldman's personal aids. I am in charge of his finances and trustee of his international estate. I have an MBA in Accounting from University of Phoenix, cum laude.

Mr Goldman called me in the middle of the night, because, he says, he must absolutely have this apartment in San Francisco you are offering. So I sent a large deposit into your associate in Florida. I have the PIN number you need to access the funds, which total $1550.

However, I am looking at the lease agreement you sent over, and it is incorrect. Have you sent me the wrong agreement? I've asked Mr Goldman to send me the correct documents, and he insists this is what you sent him. I absolutely cannot disburse the funds to you until I receive the correct lease agreement. I need the proper documentation as soon as possible. Please send the correct agreement to me, and I will release the PIN and emit the sizable funds into your associate.

Also, do you know that Mr Goldman's pet pony is diabetic and overweight? He has gained weight in the last year. Attached is a photo. I want your client to be aware so there will be no legal issues.

Sincerely,
Ms Ivana Von Zagat

Mr Walter:

You are an impatient little man, do you know that? I run a very, very tight ship. My office is well-oiled, especially Janet. But your incessant nagging is unprofessional, in my opinion, and I would discipline someone like you, very harshly.

You are lucky Mr Goldman and his diabetic pony are quite smitten with your client's apartment. Otherwise, I would not have deposited such a large load onto you and your client.
